Withdrawal, budget are in voters' hands

Newry stays

Newry will remain a part of SAD #4.

In a heavy turnout Tuesday, town voters rejected a proposed plan for Newry to pull out of the school district.

The plan received a narrow majority, 92 of the 180 votes cast, but it fell far short of receiving the two-thirds majority required by state law for a town to secede from a school district.

Budget meeting is set for Thursday evening

The annual SAD #44 budget meeting will be held April 25, 7 p.m. in the Telstar High School Auditorium.

District voters are being asked to approve a budget of $5,901,611, down $52,506 (approximately 1 percent) from the budget for the current year.

Despite the decrease in overall budget, local school taxes will go up by 4.5 percent if the budget is approved. The tax increase is necessary to offset the reduction in state funds coming into the district.

The total local assessments called for in the proposed budget is $3,068,086.

School board plans special meeting, if Newry pulls out

Planning for the possibility of Newry's withdrawal from SAD #44 was the major issue at a brief regular meeting of the school board Monday evening.

Newry director and vice-chair Alison Aloisio chaired the meeting in the absence of chairman Margaret Hand.

Should Newry pull out of the district (results of this vote are not known at the time of this writing), the board has scheduled an emergency meeting for one hour before the April 25 district budget hearing.

Superintendent Dewaine Craig said that at that time he would probably advise the board to recommend that the budget hearing be recessed and rescheduled for a later date.

This would give the board time to hold further budget workshops to deal with the impact of lost revenue from Newry, he said.

There will be no special board meeting if Newry votes to remain in the district.

In other business Monday night the board elected standing committee chairmen and heard a presentation of

Special town meeting will vote on floodplain maps

Elevations challenged as too high

The accuracy of the federal government's new floodplain maps for the Androscoggin River is expected to be the major topic of discussion at a Bethel special town meeting called for Tuesday, April 30.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency requires that before May 2 the new maps be incorporated into the town's updated Floodplain Management Ordinance. If the new maps are not included, the town risks being suspended from the National Flood Insurance Program.

Such a suspension, Town Manager Madeleine Henley said, would make the town ineligible for a wide variety of federal funds, including Federal Emergency/Disaster Aid Funds, such as the town received following the April Fools' Day flood of 1987. The town, and residents in the contested flood zone, would also be ineligible for any form of loan, grant, guarantee, insurance, or subsidy for the acquisition of land in the flood-prone areas, including FEMA, HUD, FHA and VA mortgages.

No one has questioned the need for the insurance, Henley said, but a number of residents have challenged the accuracy of the flood elevations set out in the maps, arguing that too much land has been delineated as being in the flood zone.

The designation is important to property owners because their mortgage holders might then require them to carry expensive flood insurance, and because more restrictive floodplain building requirements would be applied to any development in the areas in question.

"The elevations are well above our experienced flood levels," said planning board member Don Feeney. For example, he said, the flood of 1936 was well over the levels for a 100-year flood, yet it didn't reach a number of areas the maps designate as likely to be flooded in a 100-year event.

Likewise, he said, the more recent flood of 1987 was easily above the limits for a 10-year flood, but it didn't flood areas that the new maps designate as vulnerable to 10-year events.

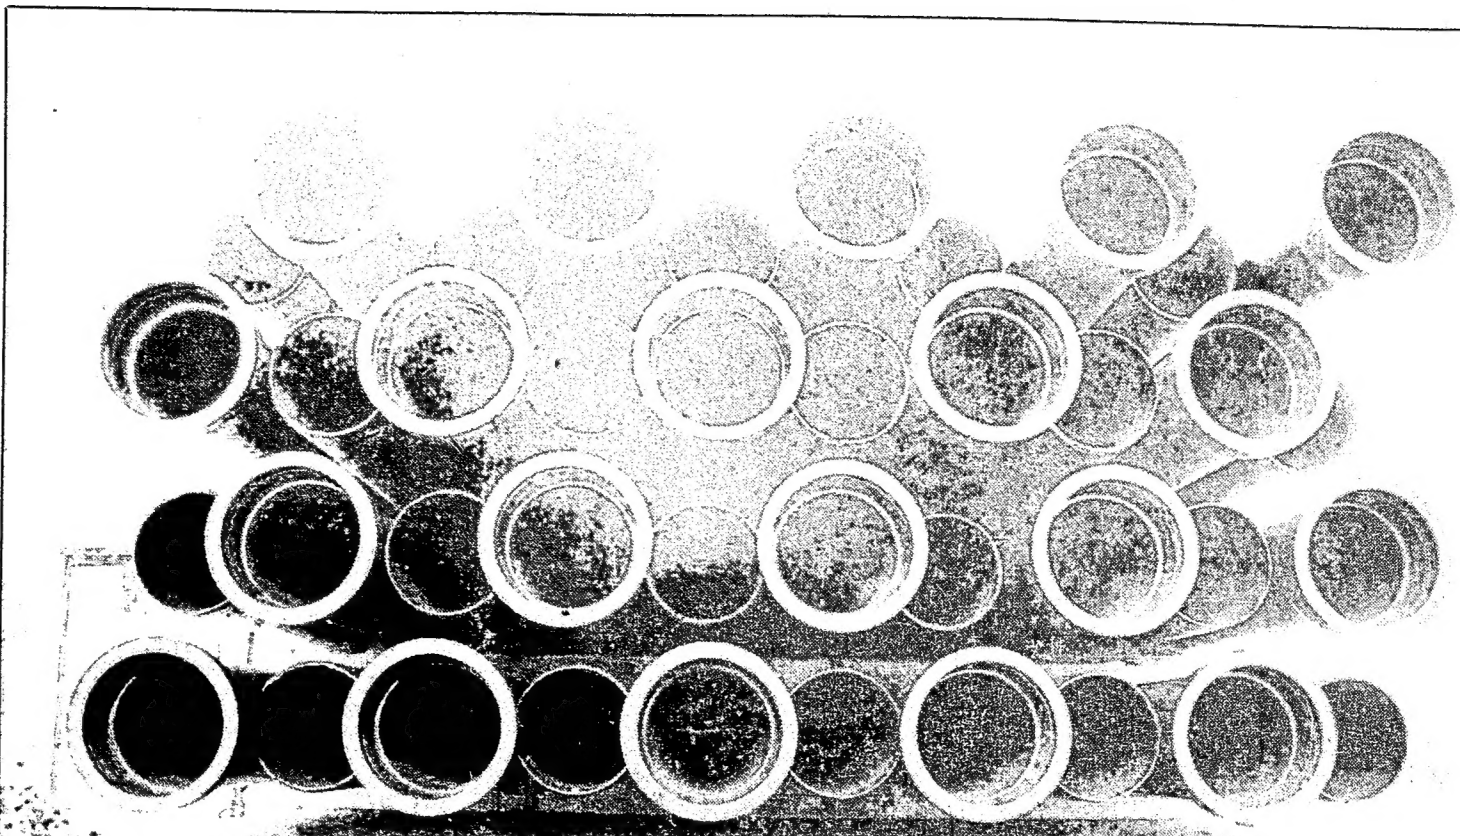

"The computers have generated floods that are well beyond our experience, but we will have to live with them in terms of our building codes, insurance and land use," Feeney said.

Rudolf Honkala, a professional geologist from Bethel, has written to FEMA making much the same argument. Honkala termed the new maps "a gross miscalculation."

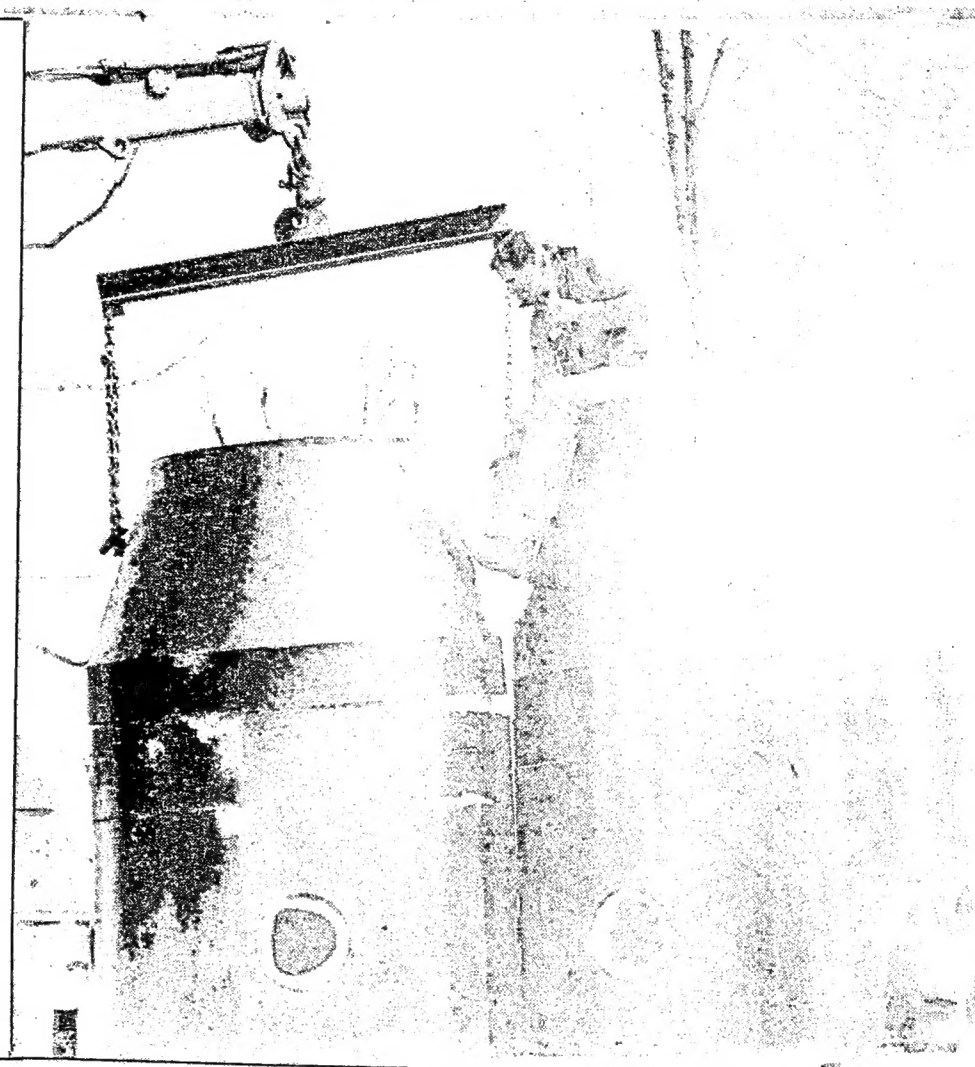

But so far FEMA has stood its ground.

With the matter still unresolved and May 2 fast approaching, Henley applied to FEMA for a 120 day extension in the deadline for adopting the new maps. But no word has yet been received on the extension, she said.

READY TO GO—Construction work on Bethel's Downtown Revitalization Project started right on schedule early Monday morning. Construction crews quickly encountered stormwater geigers, caused by heavy rains running into the sewer lines—just the sort of situation the project is intended to correct. And drivers in the village ran into the inevitable, but very brief, traffic delays. Here, a worker, right, checks out the new manhole casings, while a truckload of water main sections, above, savor their last hours in the Western Maine sunshine.

Local entrepreneurs hoping their bugs are contagious

The Octabug is jitterbugging its way into stores and catalogs

The bug is loose—but it only bites at your imagination.

Dennis Dreher and Carl Hansen of Bethel, principals in the Bug Group, have begun shipping the partnership's first product—the Octabug.

A colorful octahedron constructed of folded paper and double-sided tape, the Octabug responds to a gentle finger pull by oscillating, or "jitterbugging," between two shapes, thus mirroring a fundamental process of molecular physics, while at the same time soothing the psyche of its human handler.

The Octabug's motion is made possible by a special hinge, developed by Dreher in the mid-1970s when he spent two years working for the visionary architect and designer Buckminster Fuller (of geodesic dome fame).

Dreher, who was living in the Cambridge, Mass. area at the time, was signed on by Fuller's commercial firm to come up with a working model of a jitterbugging system—a mechanism that would reproduce the changes in molecular solids the occur, for instance, when an electron flow passes through a semi-conductor, or when certain alloys are heated.

The motion, Dreher explained, causes the molecular structure to switch rapidly back and forth between two mirror-image shapes.

The project proved to be an intellectual challenge, but was eventually abandoned when funding sources dried up.

Dreher moved to Buckfield in 1975 and continued to play with the idea in his spare time. In 1978 he spent a year as artist in residence at Hebron Academy, where he built a 15-cell stainless steel model of such a mechanism.

The model is still on display at Hebron, Dreher said, and still jitterbugging.

But as a potential commercial venture, stainless steel models proved too expensive to mass produce, although Dreher did sell a few smaller models to art galleries (one is currently on display at Mountain Mann jewelry store in Bethel).

Despite these occasional sales, however, the idea basically lay fallow for 10 years, Dreher said. But in 1988 it came to life again when he attended a conference at Harvard University and met a manufacturer/distributor

Softballers swinging for Western Maine playoffs

Telstar girls' varsity softball coach Jim Lunney said he has no doubts about the outcome of this year's season. He predicts the girls will be playing in the Western Maine Class C playoffs—for the tenth year in a row.

Last year the team finished the season with a 12-3 record and came in third in the Class C playoffs, losing to Hall-Dale High School in the semifinals.

Lunney said he has a good nucleus of returning players to lead the way to this year's playoffs. Three players graduated last year and one transferred to Gould Academy; however, the coach said he's confident the remaining players can continue the team's winning ways.

"We're going to be one of the strongest Class C teams around," he said.

Pitching is one of the team's strongest areas, Lunney said. Sophomore pitcher Staci Kangas will be the team's starting pitcher again this year. Her catcher, sophomore Dani Bernier, has caught Kangas for the past two years, and according to Lunney, both girls are very versatile and can also play any position on the team.

Another sophomore on this young team, Pam Bennett, beat out several other players for the right field starting position.

Juniors tapped to start this year are shortstop Jen Bailey, left fielder Shilo Hutchins and centerfielder Amy Hanon. Senior Lynn Buckingham will start at second base for the senior year.

This year's co-captains are second starters Kris Delano, at first base, and

Berlin, N.H. man charged in Gilead shooting incident

A Berlin, N.H. man was arrested Tuesday and charged with aggravated assault with a firearm in connection with a Northwest Bethel Road shooting incident that occurred Monday.

Robert A. Chapman, 34, turned himself in to police Tuesday morning in Gilead after allegedly shooting Tony L. Bennett, 26, of Bethel in the left calf, according to Capt. Jim Miclon of the Oxford County Sheriff's Department.

Miclon said the shooting followed a heated argument between Bennett and Chapman. After the incident Bennett drove himself to the Bethel Emergency Rescue Barn where two attendants met him and transported him to Stephen's Memorial Hospital. Miclon said Bennett was admitted to the hospital Monday and released Tuesday morning.

According to Miclon, police found a .357 magnum caliber revolver on the Northwest Bethel Road near the Maine/New Hampshire border. He said police suspect the revolver may be the one used in the shooting.

Chapman turned himself in to Miclon Tuesday morning and was released on bail Tuesday afternoon. An arraignment in Rumford District Court has been scheduled for May 17; however, according to Miclon, the case may be presented to the Oxford County Superior Court on May 6 or 7 in front of a Grand Jury.

Landon Fake replaces Jeff Parsons as director of Outward Bound's

Land-based programs

Landon Fake is Outward Bound's new director of Northern Land Programs. He replaces Jeff Parsons, who has been named director of safety for all of Outward Bound's programs throughout the U.S.

Fake has been the associate program director responsible for Outward Bound's Greenville operation. "I will now be responsible for all the programs that run out of the Newry base and the seasonal base in Greenville," he said.

Fake explained that Outward Bound runs two different type programs in Maine—sea programs from its base in Rockland, and land programs in Newry and Greenville. Outward Bound also has bases in Florida, Baltimore and Boston.

Fake said he will be consolidating Outward Bound's land programs and administering them centrally from the Newry base. He said his personal goal in his new position is to "maintain and establish further links with the local community—with Newry and Bethel—and do the same for the Greenville base."

Outward Bound currently does service projects in these communities and Fake said he hopes to continue such projects.

Jeff Parsons' position as director of safety is a newly created one. Parsons

COME STOMP YOUR FEET AND CRUSH YOU CANS AT THE BETHEL RECYCLING PARTY—Making a virtue of a necessity, Bethel will celebrate the opening of its new recycling center Saturday—with good food, fun and games, as well as some serious conversation. The activities, which will take place between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. behind the ambulance barn, will include fundraising bake sales by the local boy scouts and DARE program supporters; a variety of games, including trashy relay races, can crushing and foot stomping contests; and recycling demonstrations by representatives of the Oxford County Regional Solid Waste Corporation. On a more serious note, members of the town's solid waste committee will show how to use the new recycling containers (what goes where, and why), household recycling containers (blue boxes) will be distributed, and Town Manager Madeleine Henley said she'll be eager to hear how residents think the town should tackle its future solid waste problems. Here, Henley and Dick Hosterman, chairman of the solid waste committee, show the new sign—suitably recycled from an old railroad sign—that will mark the recycling spot.

Opinions

Pull out or stay in? Either way, show up and vote.

The Citizen is holding a small space on its front page this week in the hope that we will be able to report the results of the Newry withdrawal vote before going to press, but the rest of the paper, including this editorial, must be written before the results of the vote are known.

But whatever the voters of Newry decide, one thing is clear—SAD #44 residents should plan to turn out for Thursday night's district budget meeting.

If Newry votes to go its own way, the budget meeting still will be convened—as law requires—but a motion will be made to recess it almost immediately, in order to give the school board time to reassess the total budget package in view of the severe impact Newry's withdrawal will have on the remaining towns in the district.

This would be the prudent and responsible course. But there is no guarantee the motion would carry. If the majority of voters present wish, they could defeat the motion to recess and then go on to pass the original budget. Or—as we learned last year—an even larger budget.

This is, perhaps, an unlikely scenario, but if only a few people turn out for the meeting, it is by no means out of the question. To forestall such an eventuality, and to ensure that the district has adequate time to react to the impact of a Newry withdrawal, it is essential that a representative number of voters turn out for the meeting. This means not just school district employees and their families, but all the rest of us as well.

And this is just as true if Newry votes to stay in the district. The Citizen supports the budget proposed by the school directors. The tax increases hurt, but the district also made some no-doubt painful cuts. The budget as it stands represents as reasonable a compromise as can be achieved in these unfortunate times.

But once again, if only the usual crew shows up for the budget meeting, there is nothing to prevent them from raising the budget by whatever figure strikes their fancy.

To prevent this, the rest of us need to be there—if only to serve as a reality check.

Last year at this time a briefly popular television series seemed more important than the budget, and in our absence the local tax ante was upped by an additional $80,000 (later voted down). But, to paraphrase Edmund Wilson, "Who cares who killed Laura Palmer?" The meeting is more important. See you there? —MRD

Letters to the editor

ROLLICKING RECYCLING

To the Editor:

Effective Saturday, April 27, Bethel's recycling program will undergo new drastic changes. We will no longer be using the bin at the front of the ambulance garage but the new containers at the far end of the garage. There will be some new rules that will require your utmost cooperation.

There will be seven bins—one for HDPE (#2) plastic, one for office paper, one for computer paper, one for newspapers, one for cardboard, one for clear glass, and one for brown/green glass. The bin marked for office paper will be combined with computer paper, making the office paper bin available for tin and aluminum.

Do not put Coca-Cola, Pepsi Cola, Schlitz, etc. and clear wine or whiskey containers in with HDPE (#2) plastic. The county is not able to recycle these—at least as yet.

The newspaper bin is to receive only newspaper. Newsprint must be put in the bin loose—no grocery bags, no plastic bags, it must not be tied in bundles and not in cartons. There must be no magazines.

The cardboard bin is for corrugated cardboard and kraft grocery bags only. Please, no cereal boxes or any types of coated containers.

Hopefully, starting this coming Saturday we will get off to a rollicking start with Oxford County recycling.

FLOOD MAPS ALL WET

(The following letter was sent by Rudolf A. Honkala of Bethel to Kevin Merli of the Federal Emergency Management Agency.)

Dear Mr. Merli:

I am writing to you in regards to the flood insurance rate map published by your agency for this area. On April 30, the townspeople of Bethel will be asked to give this map their approval. The map would then become a working tool of the National Flood Insurance Program as of May 2. I urge the citizens of Bethel to reject this map as incorrect and suggest that FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency) immediately look to better data sources and/or better cartographers for a more accurate map.

This flood insurance rate map problem is not unique to this area. In 1988, just before my wife and I began the process of moving back to New England, we received a letter from our bank in Kilmarnock, Va., telling us that in light of the new flood insurance map for that area, we would be required to take out flood insurance. Our property was on the shore of a tidal water "creek" but had never been flooded in the memory of the oldest residents. We were finally excused, the bank feeling that even if our buildings were swept away the remaining land would be adequate collateral. I wonder how many property owners in Tidewater Virginia were required to take out flood insurance that they did not need?

So, we moved back to our home territory just in time to be asked to approve a map that is in error, at least for our neighborhood. Part of our property is in the shaded zone. This acreage is appreciably higher than the Androscoggin's north shore, which would provide an outlet for thousands of acres of water before there was a serious threat to this side. A shaded area even crosses the road east of our house. To suggest that flooding would reach these areas is gross miscalculation.

Don't ask us to approve a map that may well result in costs to landowners for insurance that they do not need.

Rudolf A. Honkala

FROM THE Bethel Town Office

This week, let's talk trash. First and foremost, the Grand Opening of Bethel's Recycling Center is going to be a great time for all of us. Held on Saturday April 27, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., it is primarily intended to accomplish two goals. The Rotarians will help distribute the household recycling containers (blue boxes) and Rawn Phinney of Oxford County Recycling Corp. will help instruct Bethel citizens on the proper separation and handling of recyclables now that we are participating members. In addition, we will offer free coffee and a chance for people to tell me how they feel about garbage, and the cost of disposal.

There will also be games and contests, and the DARE program fund-raisers will be selling baked goods and the Scouts will sell soda. Please plan to stop by, behind the ambulance garage.

We have received several inquiries about the landfill hours of operation. The hours are noon to 3 p.m. on Wednesday, and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. The attendant was in the habit of leaving the gate open while he worked on the cells from 3 to 4 p.m.

That practice has been stopped. The gate will be closed at 3 p.m., allowing the attendant a full hour to compact the trash and place the cover material. This enables the attendant to pay more attention to the sorting of materials when they are brought in.

While we are on the topic of sorting material for disposal, I hope you will plan to make use of the Spring Clean Up service once again offered by the Department of Public Works. Please pay close attention to the notice in this newspaper explaining what can be put out for pick up on May 6. And remember, appliances and tires must have stickers!

Town meeting

Henley did say, however, that she has been in frequent communication with FEMA, and one option discussed would be for the town to approve the new maps, but with a promise from FEMA to come into town in the near future and redraw the maps.

Henley also said FEMA officials have acknowledged that the maps do not include the most recent hydrological material compiled by the U.S. Geological Survey.

Other articles on the warrant for Tuesday's meeting include an amendment to the town sewer ordinances that would authorize the selectmen to set regulations for making loans to property owners who cannot afford to hook up to the new water and sewer lines being put in this summer.

Deb Germain honored for abuse program

Bethel Recreation Board

By this time, sign-ups for baseball should be just about complete. Tryouts will begin on Wednesday April 24, at 6 p.m. at the Crescent Park Fields.

At this time all participants are asked to attend this first meeting to get your schedules for the upcoming tryout sessions. We also plan to have a bottle drive at the same time. The newly formed league is trying to raise some money to help offset the ever-growing costs of equipment and insurance. Everyone's help in this matter will be greatly appreciated.

Also planned for the first night of practice will be a spring clean-up of the fields and surrounding area. Please bring a rake or shovel and a broom or two, and in just a few minutes we will have the field looking great.

As always, the recreation board will be looking for volunteers to help with coaching. If you or anyone that you know would be interested in coaching please let me or any one of the other coaches or recreation board members know, instruction and help will be provided.

We will look forward to seeing you on Wednesday night. For further questions or information please call Tom Remington at 824-2674. If for some reason you cannot make the practice Wednesday, schedules will be available at the town office.

volunteered their time, over the last four years to develop and successfully implement personal safety programs in our schools," Germain said.

"It was not just me. It was a team approach to implement a district wide program," Germain said.

Germain said she and the other volunteer teachers researching classroom child abuse prevention programs choose the "Talking about Touching" curricula program. "The team's goal was to build a strong foundation to the program, insuring its longevity," she said.

The program helps children recognize when their own personal safety is in danger. "Basically it teaches the children to make wise decisions and to use good judgments. It also teaches the difference between appropriate and inappropriate touches," Germain said.

The Maine Children's Trust Fund presents prevention awards recognizing a variety of efforts to prevent child abuse, neglect and mental illness. MCTF supports community-based prevention activities throughout Maine with funds provided by Maine citizens through the Maine income tax check-off and through private donations.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the next monthly meeting will be held on Thursday, May 2, beginning one half hour earlier than usual, at 7 p.m., at the Helen Berry Auditorium, Telstar Regional High School.

Featured during the program portion of the meeting will be a pageant on Bethel history by members of Miss Newcomb's fifth-grade Social Studies class.

The students have researched and written the script for the production. This program is the final event in a monthly series of presentations which began in September 1990 with a presentation on Bethel's architectural heritage by Society Curator of Collections Randall H. Bennett and extends through the school year with topics like cemeteries and meeting houses, mills and transportation, logging and farming, Bethel's early days and Civil War Bethel.

Following the student performances, a reception will be held at the Dr. Moses Mason House meeting room to honor the students, staff and parents who made this production possible. Anyone interested in attending this meeting, production and reception is cordially invited to do so.

The spring meeting of the Oxford County League of Historical Societies was held April 20 in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House, with the Bethel Historical Society serving as host. President Jan Hosterman welcomed the group to Bethel and described some of the current projects of the Society, including the pictorial history of Bethel expected to be published later in the year.

During the program portion of the meeting Society Director Stanley R. Howe made a presentation titled, "The New England Town: Myth and Reality." Some of the myths regarding the New England town were discussed by Howe.

He stressed that the values of the community, harmony, stability and industry are often associated with the New England town and in many cases this was not always the case. Town meetings were often the scene of bitter debate and this bitterness spilled out into the community, dividing sections of towns and families.

Undercutting the image of harmony and stability were problems of dealing with the poor, the drunk and the idle. Moreover, Howe cited several authorities who have argued that New England town centers were not particularly attractive places in the 17th and 18th centuries. The classic white New England village with its orderly picturesque common or green did not come into reality in many communities until well into the 19th century.

Not until the late 18th and early 19th centuries did villages become centers of commerce. A largely subsistence economy in this preindustrial era meant that only limited economic exchange took place and that such activity was dispersed geographically. A dispersed rather than nucleated settlement was the rule rather than the exception.

Howe discussed the arrival of industrialism in many New England towns and how early mill town developers attempted to pastoralize industrialization through the encouragement of small-town social and religious values. This made it easier to attract young rural girls and children to mills that were often unhealthy and dangerous.

In most cases, according to Howe, workers were exploited by receiving low wages for very long hours. As competition increased from outside New England, factory and mill owners in great numbers of cases simply increased their exploitation by hiring foreign-born workers.

Worker morale was low in many cases and tensions between "haves" and "have nots" undermined popular images of New England towns free of discord and class tensions.

The arrival of the Colonial Revival in New England following the patriotic fervor which resulted from the Centennial celebration of 1876 brought a new emphasis on the idealization of the preindustrial social order where harmony, stability and morality within the community were supposed to have triumphed.

The collection of antiques, the establishment of historic homes, the restoration of historic homes, the erection of historical tablets and statues, and the photographing of colonial scenes were all part of this movement, which also gave New England the neat white green shuttered homes on the village green with white church spire towering above that is so often associated with the New England town.

This view of the New England town continued to be the public image until the 1950s, when the publication of Grace Metalious' "Peyton Place" effectively assaulted the pieties of small New England towns.

Currently the issue, according to Howe, is keeping, for many New England towns, Maine's motto "The Way Life Should Be" alive and well with competing pressures for development; these threaten the character and essence of New England towns, at least as many think they should be, noted Howe.

Angle Hebert, who plays third base and is the likely number two pitcher.

Lunney said this year's training focus will be on hitting. In the season opener against Class B Lisbon, the Rebels got only one hit and lost 5-0. However, Lunney was quick to point out that the opposing team got only three hits off Kangas. He said the Rebels made a few errors that let in runs.

But hitting was no problem in the next game, on Friday the girls beat Dingio 10-2. The game was called after five innings due to the 12-run rule. The Rebels had eight runs going into the fifth inning and scored eight more that inning. Junior Amy Hannon hit a three-run homer to end the fifth inning.

In Friday's game Kangas allowed five hits, two walks and struck out four batters.

Lunney said the team set its goal early this year—to make it to the playoffs for the tenth year in a row. "We set that goal every year," said Lunney. "We get there. We just don't stay around as long as we'd like."

from New York State who expressed interest in marketing the Octabug.

Unfortunately, the primary problem, building a reliable hinge that could be inexpensively mass produced, had yet to be solved.

But soon afterward, Dreher hit by chance upon a solution. One day, while he was doing some freelance graphics work for The Citizen, Dreher was putting about the print shop and he happened to pick up a roll of double-sided tape—and inspiration hit. He quickly realized that a combination of double-sided tape and pre-cut construction paper might be his long-sought solution.

With the idea beginning to look commercially feasible, the New York distributor made an offer to buy Dreher out.

Dreher accepted the offer, which included a share of any future royalties, but once again financing failed to keep pace with inspiration, and the deal fell through.

Dreher then turned to Carl Hansen, his partner in a number of carpentry and cabinet building projects. Hansen had the financial skills needed to raise the capital for the project, and to handle business negotiations and marketing.

And Hansen and Dreher are both hands-on industrial designers with the skills necessary to gear the project up for mass production.

To date they have produced about 1,000 of the Octabugs (still by hand) and distributed them, primarily to wholesalers and catalog retailers.

The response, Hansen said, has been encouraging. A number of potential clients—including Disney World—have placed small orders so that they can test the Octabug out further.

If all goes well, the Bug Group hopes to be producing 100,000 units a year by 1994, Hansen said. The company also plans to explore potential export markets in Japan and Europe.

Also in the works, Dreher said, are designs for at least six more educational toys based on the jitterbugging hinge.

The Octabug comes in kit form and takes about an hour to assemble. It can currently be purchased in Bethel at Mountain Mann and Maine Line Products.

OCTABUG ENTREPRENEURS—Dennis Dreher, left, developer of the Octabug, and his business partner, Carl Hansen, show off their new product.

A four year player on soccer, basketball and baseball teams, he has earned six varsity letters and been named to First-Team All-Star soccer squads by both the Mountain Valley Conference and Maine Soccer Coaches Association. He was named to the Gosham, N.H. High School Christmas Invitational All-Tournament Team and was also a member of the 1989 Baseball Class "C" State Championship Team.

Nathan is a class officer, peer tutor and treasurer for the National Honor Society. He has devoted much time the last two years to Telstar's N.H.S. Chapter in such club sponsored activities as the Senior Citizen Thanksgiving Dinner, Red Cross Blood Drive and numerous fundraising events. He was a University of Maine Scholar and a member of the 1989 Maine State "C" State Championship Team. He is the recipient of an academic achievement award from the University of Maine and has been named a Bausch & Lomb Honorary Science Award Medalist.

Nathan is planning on a career in Accounting and Finance. He has been accepted at Thomas College, Waterville, Maine and Bentley College, Waltham, Massachusetts.

Upon graduation, Cynthia plans to continue with her Bible education and missionary work.

Achieving the third highest rank in the class is Kristen Amy Powell, daughter of Bruce and Shirley Powell of Hanover. Kristen is admired by students and staff alike for her leadership, energy, sensitivity and upbeat personality. Kristen's extracurricular participation has been truly outstanding throughout her high school career. ## Locke Mills

By LORRAINE MILLS

There will be an Old Time Dance at 8 p.m. on April 27 at the Town Hall. The Greenwood Fire Department meets at 7 p.m. the first Wednesday in May at the fire station.

Lorraine Mills accompanied Alta Ludlum to Gorham Christian Assembly in Gorham, Maine to hear Lillian Sparks address a convention of Women's Ministries members of the North Central Section, Northern New England District, Assemblies of God. Lillian and her husband are both ministers in the A/G church and have four children. Their eldest son was born with an extremely rare skin disease in which they skin tears away in patches and leaves large areas of bloody pulp. Her son Brian, who was not expected to live, has just had his 17th birthday and although his fingers have fused together he has recently acquired his license to drive his specially equipped car. Lillian has written two books about the struggle to raise this "tough cookie" as one doctor nicknamed him. Since not much is known about how to treat this rare disease much of what they have gone through has been by trial and error. Brian and sisters LeeAnn, Janelle and brother Brent were also present and sang several selections. A luncheon was served by the host church to those attending from the 15 churches registered. In the afternoon the ladies attended one of the four workshops offered: "How to Deal with Life's Disappointments," Lillian Sparks; "How to Keep Your Kids on Your Team," Stephen Sparks; "Crafts," Betty Graf-Nason. Turning Point is an abuse recovery program for abused spouses and adult children of abuse although it deals mainly with women, since women make up the majority in abuse cases. Due to the high rate of abuse in the area our church serves, the majority of the women took this workshop hoping to be able to offer this program in the not too distant future and if you've thought it seldom happens here, guess again folks. It's just very well hidden due to fear, shame and a very wrong but deeply ingrained notion that somehow these people deserve what they are getting. Many people also do not have a very well defined idea of what abuse consists of and feel this is an area where they have a "right" to do as they please. It sometimes is difficult to educate people that no one has the right to abuse another person, adult, child or animal. Violent behavior breeds violent behavior and the cycle has to be broken. Programs such as this are dedicated to breaking this cycle in this generation.

Dora Ford Dingley celebrated her 82nd birthday Wednesday, Apr. 17 at her home at the Mountain View Apartments in West Paris. Some of the residents and friends of the apartment house surprised her with a cake and cards and gifts. On Thursday Vera Cross, Helen Chase, Charlotte Cole took her a pie, chicken pie, and jelled salad and had dinner with her in honor of her birthday.

Sandy Nash of Dixfield visited Lorraine Mills Tuesday and on Wednesday Gerry Shimmamura took her to Ledgeview to see Gerry's mother, Thelma. Then on Thursday Gerry took her to the Grief and Loss session and then treated her to lunch at the Chinese Restaurant in Mexico. They also visited Linda Hughes and family in Rumford. Linda has been very ill with pneumonia and her recovery has been very slow.

It seems this month has just flown by and now May is right on our doorstep. We certainly have been treated to April showers lately. The school children have not had a very good week for vacation.

Charles H. Knight, formerly of Bethel, and Jeannette Sylvester Chase Knight were married in Bethel May 6, 1955. They will be celebrating their 36th wedding anniversary on May 6, 1991.

West Paris

By MIRIAM INMAN

Ivan and Ann Proctor have had grandchildren Benjamin and Elizabeth Merrill during vacation.

Vicky Sanborn and Brant, North Conway, N.H. were here with her folks Vernon and Miriam Inman, Friday night and Saturday. They attended the Shrine Circus Saturday morning. Shriners James Todd and Vernon Inman accompanied the fourth-grade students on the bus to the circus.

The Universalist Church Board of Management held a meeting on Wednesday evening. Plans are to have a rummage sale on June 22 and an auction on July 20th. The dates seem to be quite a while away, but now that house cleaning time is here, many things are not needed, so save them for the benefit of the church. If you want them picked up sooner, you may call Joyce Lamb at 674-2002 or Marta Clements at 674-2143 for rummage. Jim Burke and Mike McLaughlin volunteered to be in charge of the auction, so if you have donations you may call 674-2006 or 674-2729. The next meeting will be on Wednesday May 15 at the Church at 7 p.m.

Forward Fellowship will meet on Monday, April 29 at the home of Marta Clements. There will be a potluck supper at 6 p.m. Meeting to follow.

The first meeting of the new Garden Club will be on May 1, at the Fire Station meeting room. Anyone interested in gardening or exchanging plants are welcome to attend. You may call Sally Berry at 674-3757 if you have any questions.

Clarence "Doodie" Reid is a patient at Stephens Memorial Hospital where he is having surgery Thursday.

West Paris Historical Society met Monday evening with 15 members and two guests present. After the potluck supper a short business meeting was held. It was voted to have the Society building open on June 8, the day of the Alumni Banquet. There will be a cleaning day on May 6, for spring cleaning. Any help will be appreciated.

After the meeting, Joe Perham who has done much research on Abraham Lincoln's stories and humor, entertained us with the same. The next meeting will be on May 20 with a 6 p.m. potluck supper preceding. Mione Record and Lempi Cyr will be the super committee. Virginia Hyam will be in charge of entertainment.

East Stoneham

By GLADYS KILGORE

Mrs. Eleanor Nelson and Mrs. Frances Grant attended the Variety Show at Norway.

Mrs. Ruth Dunham and daughter of Bryant Pond visited Mrs. Helen Grover one day.

Mrs. Grace Nelson and Mrs. Edith Holt went to Norway shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury are visiting for a few days in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Lorraine Agelkio is working part time in the Country Store. Mrs. Nancy Barker is working part time at the hospital in Bridgton.

Mrs. Helen Jewell of North Waterbury visited friends here one afternoon.

The Rev. Janice Wilcox was around making calls one day last week.

Mrs. Eddie Millett has been confined to her home by illness for a few days.

West Bethel

By CONSTANCE BROADBENT

Dear Paul: We would be able to join you at the race bridge as planned. Our commitments here preclude our traveling to Concord to participate in the call to arms, despite our inclination to the contrary. You and the stout fellows of Waterville and Cambridge and Lexington and the surrounding villages will have to muddle through without us. Mid season is upon us; the wagon wheels are in muck to the hubs, and the horses are too tired to make the trip. Otherwise we'd be only too anxious to help you stave off the pesky Redcoats.

As we move ever so slowly into spring, we see signs of survival in every corner of our mountain village. The varieties of birds at the feeders and on the wires has increased dramatically. Hawks perch in perusal of the fields once more; robins gather in great numbers on lawns along the Flat Road. Folks are busy spring-cleaning the bluebird house in anticipation of the arrival of that special breed. Alfred Merrill reports that they (the bluebirds) have been inspecting his row of houses in anticipation of nesting...fussy little buggers...The goldfinches are a wonderful yellow again, and the morning stillness is broken (now even earlier than we plan to arise) by the chattering of the entire population of cow-birds, red-winged blackbirds, blue-jays, and grackles.

There is a sense of pride in the 'spring cleaning' at the West Bethel Union Church. Members met last week for the Annual Meeting to approve their new budget, and to name their leaders for the coming year. The new shepherd of the flock, John Williams accepted the praise of former Pastor Norman Rust, and thanked his parishioners for their warm welcome and their avid support. John's wife, Wendy was not able to present as she was back at the family farm in Otisfield, tending her own flock (of sheep, that is). Many new lambs have been recently 'birthed' and Wendy has assumed the role of sheep-sitter.

In spite of the harbingers of spring, there is still an occasional nip in the air; smoke still twirls from chimneys; warm coats still hang at the ready. Rupert Grover and his grandson, David spent the recent days cutting and splitting many cords of wood for next season's warmth. Now that's 'semper paratus' personified!

Nancy Weber was not prepared for the twist that fate took recently at her home in Kingston, Massachusetts. Fire of unknown origin lapped up a considerable portion of the house while she was away. As a result she is 'away' for an extended vacation in West Bethel. Dick and Jane Hosterman (Jane and Nancy are sisters) are doing their best to make Nancy feel at home, and to help her acclimate to her new surroundings as she awaits the restoration of her own place.

Speaking of own places...The Flat Road Vantours just returned from a visit with their Massachusetts sons who are about to open their 'own place'...a pizza delivery operation that will originate from Newton (Mass.). Once the licensing board granted the victualers license, the proud parents of the daring young men hoisted the 'bubbly' with them in the shell of a former bike shop that will soon be transformed into their base of operations. As 'Pizzaman' takes shape, they hope to give the competition a run for the money, and maybe even set the 'domino effect' into action.

So, friend patriot, as you rush through the streets shouting your warning, we'll be thinking of you. We hope that your 'trip' will be a success, oh wearer of the tricorn. If we get free of the mire, maybe we can get there in time to help with the fray. We'll look for the signal in the bell...Now, let's see...was it one or two, if by land...Why can't I keep that straight? Whatever the day brings...Dominus Vobiscum...

Love, C.B.

Elderwood Manor Items

Ray and Betty Hodsdon, Rhode Island, were overnight guests of her mother, Flora Whitten recently.

Mary Thurston is home from Hollis where she has been visiting her brother Linwood for a few days.

Erin Walker has moved to Portland. Best of luck to her from the group at the manor.

Anne Fox, attended the Ladies Aid Meeting, Wednesday.

Louise and Judy Hall, Roxbury, called on Gertrude Hutchins and Florence Hall on Saturday evening.

Bus riders were Elizabeth Sennett and Mary Thurston.

Louise Powell, Hale, and Bernice Wing, Dixfield, visited Alma Hewey.

Thought for the day: There is nothing wrong with the younger generation that the older generation didn't outgrow.

Calvary Congregational Church

Patriot's Day Sunday: Opening Hymn "Battle Hymn of Rebulic" the choir sang: America the Beautiful.

Brother Al Buzzell's message was on "forgiveness" Luke 17:3-10. Confess wrongness, and ask forgiveness. God says it, not that we feel like it. Forgiveness is more important than worship, you can't worship before you forgive.

Junior Church leader this week, Margie Stinson, Margaret Buzzell will be leader for the following Sunday, also Barb Bailey.

Sunday: Teen Club 6 p.m.; April 27, Four C's Conference at Limington Congregational Church. Sunday, April 28, Al Buzzell will speak.

Vacation Bible School, June 24-28, 9 to 11 a.m. Randy Rickards will be with us to teach some new songs. A meeting for teachers and helpers at a later date will be necessary.

Newry

By JIM ANDERSON

Welcome home goes out to Louise and Norman Teley. They have come back from Florida and will be with us for a while. Also up here for a shorter time is the famous Wee Willy. Hope he gets his phone in while he is up here.

April 29 at 7 p.m., there will be the annual meeting of the Newry Community Church at the church.

April 28 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. is the dreaded vote on whether Newry pulls out of SAD #44. To people who feel on either side of the issue, remember to go out and vote. If you don't, things may turn out the way you didn't want it to happen. Between the number of people that will be affected by this move or no move, and the tax base the district charges Newry; is a valuable asset to not only the town, but to the rest of the country and the world as well. The kids! Voters of Newry, remember them!

Bowling news: The ranks of the lady bowlers has risen with the homing of Louise Teley. Missing from the bowling gang this week (4/17) was Betsy Clark who was home with the sniffles and Eleanor Davis. For the second week, Karlene Bachelard won the whole shooting match. Karlene, watch out Louise! You're not too far behind you!

She was the fourth place behind you! I was saddened by the news article by Wendy Hanscom on the death of Louise Dickinson Rich in last weeks paper. Through her "We Took to the Woods," my family first took to Rangeley Lake manor and eventually to where I am living today. Mrs.

Rich and my mother were both married to men with diabetes and thru her book mother felt that my father could live up here in Newry. One thing is for sure, her books will continue to let people "Have a love affair with the state of Maine."

I failed to mention that Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson are not related to either mother or I. As I mentioned last week, they will be here in Newry with their group and Mrs. Robert Anderson is Sylvia's Gray's daughter.

Fire department news: next meeting of the fire department will be at the Sunday River Station on May 6 at 7 p.m. Still have plenty of room for more members and training is available! And membership is not limited to men. Sunday the 14th was a busy day for some fire departments in Oxford County. We had a "controlled burn" at the Harrington farm. It was a good day to burn a field and we needed something to get the stiffness out of a quiet winter with little to no fires. As close as I can figure, we have had 48 calls since January of 1988.

Eleven have been brush or forest fires, nine have been false alarms, seven chimney fires, six house or camp calls for fires or some trouble, seventeen accidents, and four calls for aid (three to Bethel and one to Gilead). The first and third quarters have been the busiest quarters during the last three years. July to September of 1990 was our busiest with nine calls, with no calls during the final quarter of that year. As to which side of town has had the most calls, I really do not want to get into that "can of worms!" Let's just say both sides of Newry had their fair share of attention without any fire department member getting seriously hurt.

North Paris

By DORIS C. LAWRENCE

Thursday, April 11, Mary Smith, Dora Dingley and I went to the Oxford County Senior Citizens meeting at South Paris Fire Station for a delicious baked ham dinner with mashed potatoes, veggies, salads, rolls, homemade pies, and cookies. A very good crowd. Then we visited Gertrude Birney at Market Square Nursing Home. She is feeling much better. Then I went to Mr. and Mrs. Eino Kuvaja's for a birthday supper for Susan Kimball. A very good supper as usual, three birthday cakes.

The West Paris senior citizens will meet on Wednesday, May 8 at the Mission Congregational Church for a potluck dinner and the children from the Agnes Gray Elementary School will entertain us. Please bring your utensils and something for the table at the May 11 West Paris Grange Hall Flea Market and food sale. The flea market is starting at 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Mrs. Roberta Isley, Ian and Tom and Madge Vatcher have been to Nova Scotia for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Oja and Evelyn Chamberlain went to visit Gail Oja in Massachusetts, and then went to Pennsylvania, and toured a lot of interesting places.

Monday April 15, I went to Dixfield and visited Mr. and Mrs. Cleon Pinkham and Doris and I visited Joanne Abbott and her new baby Heather. We ate at Ma's Restaurant and went to several stores. That evening I got Mary Smith and we went to Franklin Grange Hall to Citizen Award Night. Mr. and Mrs. Howard McKillop were the honored couple. A lot of their foster children were there and their own family. It was such a nice program and the cloggers from Portland were super.

I visited Richard and Barbara Felt. Their son-in-law Roy Silver was taken to emergency Wednesday evening, April 17. He was very uncomfortable Thursday.

My callers: Joe Vatcher, Richard Felt, Sandy Spencer, Ruby Wing, Suzette Keniston and Kyle. Chris Spencer raked my lawn, Odell Heath.

May 4, Saturday there will be a dance at West Paris Grange Hall with the Richard Felt orchestra.

Saturday, May 4 we will have our first supper at North Paris Community Hall, from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. Beans, salad, casseroles, biscuits, rolls, homemade pies.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

Sunday was a day new born just hatched from the sun; a dawn's new breaking. From the pond quacking in expectancy came the talk of the ducks. There also came blackbirds spluttering the sky. A robin called from a branch in my maple tree.

To see the pond again free of ice seemed wonderful. Water fascinates everyone, especially when it's in motion. Perhaps it is because light penetrates it and is reflected by it.

After going to church I visited at the farm, had dinner with the family and the best of cooks, my sister-in-law, then later went hiking with the two little girls. They are fast growing up.

I thought we would travel the cart road up the first gate, but as always half way up the girls wanted to cross the brook. They like it as well as I do. So we crossed another field to reach a gap in the wall and to find out if we could get across to the next field over.

We must walk on rocks in the brook. The sun laughed, the brook echoed, the girls chattered and the trees dreamed of new outfits.

We looked for pussywillows and saw many, but too mature to pick.

There were moose tracks, no doubt left by the one which recently walked the road by the farm house and on into the woods.

Our crossing was good, so we went into another field. When part way up the hill Jennie said, "I'm tired, I'll rest on this rock." Mary and I went on to the "House Rock," which was just a short distance. Mary climbed its roof.

Then we turned back. Meantime Jenn had gone to the other brook. So of course Mary had to go, too. She was younger and unable to stride as far, so she sank into the mud. She sat down, took off her shoes and socks, washed her feet and came running to me. We still had another field to cross, but she refused to wear muddy shoes, so made her way barefoot. She didn't mind that.

Back at the house I could scarcely believe the day was fast drawing to a close. Where had it gone?

In a short time I returned to my home. I reviewed the day and decided it had after all been one of those truly lovely ones, when from dawn to dusk one little adventure had followed another. The sun had shone down and the breezes had wafted over all.

Now at day's end my muscles had that comfortable feeling of having been used as intended. It was a fatigue of good health and exercise in an enchanting environment. I drifted to sleep with delightful memories.

I hope that the "Small Fry" did the same.

Robert, Jennie, Ann, David and Mary Holt were home on Sunday. Robert helped get wood. David couldn't stay long because he and Sally had to go to Standish.

If you read last week's Advertiser no doubt you noticed my picture with this "Waterford's Colista Morgan featured on oral History Tape."

I'm still in Greenwood. Several have asked "Have you moved?" No, it was all a mistake.

Several from here attended the show at South Paris, April 11. I met pupil's I had not seen in many years. They told me they came to see me. I was so pleased to see them.

A small coyote, hit by a car, was found by the side of the road at the farm on Sunday. I didn't get to the Variety Show at West Paris this year, but some from here attended.

Colista Cogswell and Lillian Strait visited their mother, Rena Curtis, Saturday.

The fifteenth of April already; where does the time go to I wonder! A little cloudy this morning as I sit down to write but could be lots worse. I don't like the weather forecast I have heard this morning and hope they are wrong. We need a good evening tonight for our Grange program makes me wish for good weather more than ever.

Sunday certainly was a grand and glorious day with lots of sunshine and good temperatures. Got out in it for a while and enjoyed every minute of it.

The trees are budding in good shape and I have an idea my allergies will be budding in good shape also as the time goes on. They have the past two years and probably won't miss a chance to give me the devil this year, either.

Not much happened here the middle of the week. Russell and I have kept busy in our own ways. I sew, crochet, do find-a-word puzzles and whatever else needs doing. Russell practices on his piano, reads and does whatever else he can find to do which is plenty to keep busy. He has got some seeds planted and hoping to see them start soon. Some already have.

Tom has been down several nights this week and we have played Tri-ominoes. Never know who is going to win but it is a fun game and keeps one on their toes to be able to play and get rid of their trinominoes first to get the large score.

Saturday evening, Russell and I went to the Tri-Town Variety Show at the gym in West Paris and it was very good. We had some good laughs and the music was great too.

We saw many folks there that we knew and from the way everyone laughed, I am sure they enjoyed the show as well as we did. Stayed home on Sunday as I thought my daughter might come up but she did not so should have gone riding.

Got lots to do today for our Grange program tonight. Hope weather permits everyone to get there to entertain and for folks to come to enjoy it.

Mary was in Boston last Friday with the fifth-grade pupils from West Paris where they visited the Museum of Science, the aquarium, Old Ironsides and other spots of interest to all. She said it was beautiful there with lots of green grass and flowers. They were able to have more chaperones so there was one to each two children so all did better and could see more so all less trouble.

Athletic Association had an auction at the Grange Hall on Saturday and it was very successful. That helps them out a lot.

Don't forget the flea sale and food sale on May 11, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tables available for those wishing to sell items and the price is certainly right at $2 a table. A chance to sell items you would like to get rid of or have made.

Also, don't forget the dance at the West Paris Grange Hall on May 4, come for your usual good time.

While we were talking, Mary discovered another of her bird houses have been taken over by the bluebirds. How lucky can one get? We keep trying but don't have that kind of success at all.

Sun is shining better than it was when I started this paper so hope it will continue to shine all day. I would love to have it.

No so much news this week but forgot to say that Peggy got home from her trip to Arizona and Georgia last evening. She had visited her daughter and husband in Arizona and then flew to Georgia to visit her granddaughter and other members of her family. Guess she had a good time. Take care and have a good week ahead.

So. Woodstock

By OLIVE R. DAVIS

Would you like to know where the Woodstock Historical Museum is located? It is in the town of Bryant Pond on Rt. 26 on the left side of the road going toward Bethel about two or three houses above where the old station was located. Visitors from all over the country stop by in the summer months when it is open Saturday afternoon. The name is on the front of the building. Come and see us.

Oliver Davis took dinner with Esther Davis, Thursday.

Callers at our house were Alfred Bernier, Don McGlaughlin and Mark McEwen, Richard Pell, Lucille Robbins, and Esther Davis.

Esther Davis had dinner guests at her home on April 11th. Jim Whitmore from Livermore was there, and came up to my house and took me down to enjoy the delicious dinner served by Esther. Esther brought me home afterwards.

Several attended Johnny Howe's 85th birthday party at the Franklin Grange on Sunday afternoon. A dinner was served. This was carried out by his daughter Olive Risco and sons Francis and Edwin.

Jim and Kris Miclon are moving to their house that they have been repairing.

I called my folks at Bridgton today and found Sylvia Andrews had a horrid cold. They were not able to come over.

The wind has been very cold this last few days. I guess that is why colds are developing all over.

Lloyd Merryfield has completed his syrup business and has removed his lines.

Harry Hutchins helped Ellsworth Hathaway with his saw mill this week. Edith Deegan, Ethel Davis and Gloria Redman were in Florida the past week. They have returned home now.

Jackson-Silver Post #68

Members of the Jackson-Silver Post American Legion met in their Hall on the Gore Road in Locke Mills for their second meeting of the month, Thursday, April 18.

There was a special event that preceded the meeting at 6 p.m. Mr. Ray Burnham of Bryant Pond came to show the Legion and Auxiliary members an hour-long video about the Civilian Conservation Corps that served their country from 1932 to 1942 building roads, bridges, state parks and many other projects to aid in conservation in this country.

Mr. Burnham himself was a member of the Corps. He mentioned how they all worked for $30 per month plus housing, food and clothing. One could wish that this nation might be recaptured again by the spirit of conservation and the willingness to work hard often for long hours to accomplish their purpose which is still bringing enjoyment to thousands of people today. Thanks again Mr. Burnham for sharing this bit of American history with us.

Following this members of the Post met for their business meeting. Officers present including the Post Adjutant and Finance Officer brought their reports in a brief business meeting. The adjutant, Brian Strickland, reported that they are still working on the project of compiling a roster of all the life time members and outstanding members to be placed on a plaque.

The Americanism officer, Roland Lord along with the post commander Edley Strickland reported on two projects soon to be presented to the local schools. One is a brief course on flag etiquette along with a video to be presented to local schools. The other project to promote patriotism is by an essay contest in the seventh and eighth grades on various presidents in American history. This idea originated with the commander himself.

Members voted to send the Home for Little Wanderers in Waterville a donation as they have in past years.

The report of this years nominating committee was voted on and the officers for the coming year were elected. They were as follows: post commander, Brian Strickland; first vice, Richard Cross; second vice, Frank York; adjutant, Charles Mason; finance officer, Delwin Wilson; chaplain, Rodney Hanscom; service officer, Warren Smith; Americanism officer, Roland Lord; Sgt. at arms, Raymond Tripp Jr. and post historian, Edley Strickland.

The Post and members of the Auxiliary voted to sponsor a benefit supper for Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bartlett, members of the Post and Auxiliary, respectively, on Thursday, May 2 from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Comrade Bartlett has been without work for several long months due to a physical injury without any financial remuneration. Let's all turn out and do all we can to ease the burden of this fine young couple. Those wishing to donate food may call Mrs. Noreen Russo, Auxiliary president of Bryant Pond.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

A video of the CCC preceded the latest meeting of Jackson-Silver Unit, American Legion Auxiliary on April 18.

The Post had arranged for Raymond Burnham of Bryant Pond to show the film. Ray was, himself, a former member of the Bridgton Company, Civilian Conservation Corp. The CCC was a Federal program which began in 1933 and ran until 1942 and was a way to help young men with gaining employment during the "Great Depression." At the same time, it provided a way to accomplish numerous projects concerned with the environment.

The film dealt with several companies in Maine and their accomplishments. Among them were: building the Maine section of the Appalachian Trail; building the Evans Notch road and the road up Cadillac Mountain; fire protection. Several men who had been age 17 and up at the time related their experiences for the film. Several of them remembered it as one of the happiest periods of their lives. They had been given a chance to work and earn money while building skills and self-esteem. Their pay of $30 a month was the envy of the regular Army, where pay was only $21.

Some of the younger Auxiliary members who had never heard of the CCC found the film very interesting and it brought back memories for others of neighbors and friends who had participated in the program.

In the business meeting plans were completed for installation of officers on May 9. The officers elected and to be installed are: president, Kathleen McAllister; first vice president, Ruth Mason; second vice president, Lillian Herrick; secretary, Olive Risko; treasurer, Vera Dunham; chaplain, Sylvia Dunham; historian, Noreen Russo; sergeant-at-arms, Grace Smith. The installation officer will be Ramona Lowe of Bethel, past president of Oxford County Council Legion Auxiliary. She will select her own assistants. The Post officers will be installed on the same evening and refreshments will be served afterward. Interested people and all members are invited to attend.

Delegates to the Department Convention, to be held in Augusta in June were elected. They are Noreen Russo, Kathleen McAllister, Olive Risko, with Lillian Herrick as an alternate.

On May 2, from 5:30 to 7 p.m. the Post and Auxiliary will serve a benefit supper for the Andy and Kathy Bartlett family. There will be a variety of hot dishes, salads, rolls and pies. A donation of $4 for adults and $2 for children is requested.

A donation to the Auxiliary Emergency Fund was voted at this meeting. This program provides emergency assistance to a Senior member. It provides for short term help in developing job skills and is aimed in large part to assist the suddenly "displaced homemaker."

A brief meeting will be held on May 2 following the benefit supper.

OXFORD POMONA GRANGE

Bear Mountain Grange, South Waterford, was host to Oxford Pomona Grange for the April meeting, serving supper to 50.

This was a two-point meeting with Cumberland, Oxford Union Pomona providing the officers and the program. Officers for the evening were William Grant, Clyde and Ruby Whitney, Frances Roberts, John Kopak, Scott and Valerie Gavett, Hazel Conant, Ruth Irish, Gerald and Barbara Brooks, Earl Purington Peggy Sylvan, Phyllis Hoyt, Dot Canwell, Myrtle Bisbee, and Elizabeth Foster.

Honored guests recognized were Hazel Conant, treasurer of the Maine State Grange; Lewis and Myrtle Bisbee, deputies; Ruby Whitney, State Grange C.W.A. member and husband, Clyde; Frances Roberts, State Lecturer's Committee member; Bill Grant, Youth Committee and John Kopak, Cumberland Pomona Master.

The chairmen of the Legislative, C.W.A. and youth committee reported. The Grange voted to participate in the massing of the flags on June 15 at Union hosted by Knox Pomona Grange.

Pharmacy & Your Health

David Preble, Pharm.D.
Avoid Alcohol-Aspirin Combination
Beverage alcohol should be avoided when certain prescription and nonprescription medicines are being used. If alcohol is consumed while a person is taking narcotic pain relievers, tranquilizers, antihistamines, anti-anxiety agents, or sedative-type sleep medicines, the following may occur: headaches, rapid heart beat, confusion, and impaired mental judgement.
According to a recent study reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association, the use of alcohol and aspirin at the same time can lead to unexpected increases in blood alcohol concentrations. Individuals in the study were given identical breakfasts and alcohol in orange juice. Some were given two 500 milligram aspirin tablets. Those who took the aspirin had blood alcohol concentrations that were 26 percent higher than those who did not take aspirin.
Researchers indicate that although the level of blood alcohol increase is not dramatic, the increase is enough to "alter a person's response time and make the person too impaired to drive or operate machinery." Researchers consider the findings important because food in the stomach usually keeps blood alcohol levels low. Apparently, when aspirin is present, blood levels are enhanced.

We sat by your side all through the night.
Giving you the strength, we hoped, to fight.
But at last God took the man
Leaving behind his footprints in the sand.
And even though we're miles and miles apart
We have precious memories to hold near to the heart
And if we look to the midnight sky
We can still see the wink of your eye.
